
HESI RN Pharmacology Version 1 (v1) exit exam - Brand New Q&As!

Guaranteed Pass w/A+

Actual Screenshots w/Questions &
Answers Included!!!

(I scored 1162!!!)

A client with chemotherapy induced nausea receives a prescription for metoclopramide. Which adverse effect is most important for the nurse to report?

- ☐ A Nausea.
- ☒ B Involuntary movements.
- ☐ C Diarrhea.
- ☐ D Unusual irritability.

A client is scheduled for a spiral computed tomography (CT) scan with contrast to evaluate for pulmonary embolism. Which information in the client's history requires follow-up by the nurse?

- ☐ A Metal hip prosthesis was placed twenty years ago.
- ☒ B Takes metformin hydrochloride for type 2 diabetes mellitus.
- ☐ C CT scan that was performed six months earlier.
- ☐ D Report of client's sobriety for the last five years.

A client recently diagnosed with multiple sclerosis, who self-administers beta-1a interferon, reports feeling increasingly depressed. Which action should the nurse implement?

- ☐ A Assess the client for feelings of increasing fearfulness.
- ☐ B Teach the client strategies for coping with chronic illness.
- ☒ C Notify the healthcare provider of the findings immediately.
- ☐ D Encourage the client to seek counseling for depression.

Before administering the initial dose of sumatriptan succinate to a client with a migraine headache, it is most important to determine if the client's history includes which problem?

- ☐ A Type 2 diabetes mellitus.
- ☐ B Seasonal allergic rhinitis.
- ☐ C Irritable bowel syndrome.
- ☒ D Coronary artery disease.

Submit and Continue